ZiloAcademy

✨ Grade 5 English — Inferential Comprehension ✨

Name: Demo Grade 5 Date: 26/11/2026

1. Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Took several deep breaths before standing up, and kept glancing at the clock every few minutes." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are nervous about something coming up" or "they are completely relaxed and unconcerned"? 2) Read this passage: "Refused to move on until each detail was correct, and kept detailed notes of every single step." What can we infer about this person? — "they are careful and thorough" or "they are careless about their work"?

2. Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Kept glancing at the clock every few minutes, and tapped a pencil nervously against the desk." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are nervous about something coming up" or "they are completely relaxed and unconcerned"? 2) Read this passage: "Kept telling everyone the good news, and skipped happily down the hallway." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are feeling very happy" or "they are feeling upset"?

3

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Double-checked every measurement three times, and refused to move on until each detail was correct." What can we infer about this person? — "they are careful and thorough" or "they are careless about their work"? 2) Read this passage: "Could not stop grinning during the meeting, and smiled and hummed quietly all morning." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are feeling very happy" or "they are feeling upset"?

4

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Sat alone at the back of the room, and stared quietly at the floor the whole time." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are feeling shy or uncomfortable" or "they are the centre of attention and loving it"? 2) Read this passage: "Tapped a pencil nervously against the desk, and took several deep breaths before standing up." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are nervous about something coming up" or "they are completely relaxed and unconcerned"?

5

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Read the weather warning several times before leaving, and kept a list of emergency numbers close by." What can we infer about this person? — "they are cautious and like to be prepared" or "they never think about safety"? 2) Read this passage: "Smiled and hummed quietly all morning, and kept telling everyone the good news." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are feeling very happy" or "they are feeling upset"?

6

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Could not stop grinning during the meeting, and skipped happily down the hallway." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are feeling very happy" or "they are feeling upset"? 2) Read this passage: "Asked a colleague to review the work before submitting it, and kept detailed notes of every single step." What can we infer about this person? — "they are careful and thorough" or "they are careless about their work"?

7

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Refused to move on until each detail was correct, and double-checked every measurement three times." What can we infer about this person? — "they are careful and thorough" or "they are careless about their work"? 2) Read this passage: "Read the weather warning several times before leaving, and checked the locks on every door twice." What can we infer about this person? — "they are cautious and like to be prepared" or "they never think about safety"?

8

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Read the weather warning several times before leaving, and packed a torch and spare batteries just in case." What can we infer about this person? — "they are cautious and like to be prepared" or "they never think about safety"? 2) Read this passage: "Could not stop grinning during the meeting, and smiled and hummed quietly all morning." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are feeling very happy" or "they are feeling upset"?

9

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Double-checked every measurement three times, and kept detailed notes of every single step." What can we infer about this person? — "they are careful and thorough" or "they are careless about their work"? 2) Read this passage: "Refused to move on until each detail was correct, and double-checked every measurement three times." What can we infer about this person? — "they are careful and thorough" or "they are careless about their work"?

10

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Read this passage: "Kept a list of emergency numbers close by, and read the weather warning several times before leaving." What can we infer about this person? — "they are cautious and like to be prepared" or "they never think about safety"? 2) Read this passage: "Skipped happily down the hallway, and smiled and hummed quietly all morning." What can we infer about how they feel? — "they are feeling very happy" or "they are feeling upset"?