Name: Demo Date: 26/11/2026

1. What term describes a digital text designed to be read in a non-linear order, letting readers jump between sections via links?

2. Answer all three (separate with commas). 1) Unlike a printed book, can a reader typically choose their own path through a website by clicking different links? 2) Can a reader's location or browsing history affect which version of a webpage's content or ads they see? 3) What is it called when text, images, and interactive elements are combined on one scrolling page that tells a story as you scroll?

3. Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Is it possible for a digital text to combine reader comments and creator content on the very same page? 2) Can a digital text be updated or corrected after publication in a way a printed book cannot?

4. Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) What is the term for a piece of clickable text or image that links to another page or resource in a digital text? 2) What is it called when a video automatically begins playing as soon as a webpage loads, without the user clicking play?

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Can a digital text be updated or corrected after publication in a way a printed book cannot? 2) What is the term for a digital document that updates live for every viewer, such as a shared spreadsheet several people are editing?
