ZiloAcademy

✨ Grade 8 English — Imagery ✨

Name: Demo Date: 26/11/2026

1

Answer all three (separate with commas). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The overripe mango was sickly sweet, almost too much to swallow." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The wet sand squelched coldly between her bare toes." 3) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Sandpaper-rough bark scraped against her palm as she climbed."

2

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The distant foghorn moaned through the thick, salty mist." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The bonfire crackled and spat sparks into the freezing night air."

3

Answer all three (separate with commas). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Sandpaper-rough bark scraped against her palm as she climbed." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The hospital corridor reeked of bleach and stale coffee." 3) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The bitter coffee left a harsh aftertaste that lingered on his tongue."

4

Answer all three (separate with commas). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Steam curled off the noodles, carrying the sharp bite of chilli and garlic." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Fluorescent lights buzzed and flickered over rows of grey cubicles." 3) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The popcorn's buttery, salty crunch was impossible to stop eating."

5

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Her fingers traced the rough, splintered edge of the old wooden fence." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The cold metal railing bit into her palms as the wind whipped past."

6

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The bitter coffee left a harsh aftertaste that lingered on his tongue." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Her fingers traced the rough, splintered edge of the old wooden fence."

7

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The bitter coffee left a harsh aftertaste that lingered on his tongue." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The overripe mango was sickly sweet, almost too much to swallow."

8

Answer all three (separate with commas). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The wet sand squelched coldly between her bare toes." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The bakery's warm, buttery scent drifted down the cobbled lane." 3) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Sandpaper-rough bark scraped against her palm as she climbed."

9

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The distant foghorn moaned through the thick, salty mist." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Steam curled off the noodles, carrying the sharp bite of chilli and garlic."

10

Answer both (separate your two answers with a comma). 1) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "The bakery's warm, buttery scent drifted down the cobbled lane." 2) Which sense(s) does this imagery mainly appeal to: "Church bells rang out across the valley, echoing off the distant hills."